Mission Statement: "As Christians living in God's grace we seek to demonstrate our faith in Christ by caring, listening, and responding to the needs of the whole person, serving each other and those beyond our Lutheran community."

PASTOR'S MESSAGE

At this time of year something happens: we, like many churches, worry about money. How far behind are we? Will we meet the budget? We aren't always so quick to talk about money matters publicly, especially when you are the pastor. Appealing for money to meet the budget which is mostly made up of my salary, is definitely not my first choice of things to address.

This year for the first time ever the Eastern Synod Bishop is hosting many clergy from the synod for a free Generosity Practicum. The generosity practicum runs for three days October 2-5 in Orillia. Stewardship and generosity continuing education events are not the first subjects I would choose to study but when it is a free event with a special invitation from the Bishop I am happy to attend.

The practicum will be interesting. At the event we will be hearing presentations from The Ven. Dr. Michael Thompson, General Secretary of the Anglican Church of Canada; Susan Graham-Walker, Manager of Congregational Giving & Stewardship, United Church of Canada and Anglican Church of Canada; The Rev. Dr. Herb Gale, Associate Secretary of Planned Giving, Presbyterian Church of Canada; Paul Nazareth, Vice President of Community Engagement with CanadaHelps.org; Keith Myra, Eastern Synod Treasurer; The Very Rev. Peter Wall, Dean of Niagara Diocese Anglican Church of Canada.

With such a broad array of talented presenters I am excited to be attending this event. However, although not spoken to us there most certainly is a catch to attending this event. When clergy return to their respective parishes we will be expected to introduce and create a culture of generosity and new practices. I am excited about this opportunity to look at how we can encourage continued and innovative practices.

Remember Jesus talked about money matters, giving and stewardship all the time. It is our turn now to listen and to follow.

Pastor Scott

Anglican-Lutheran Retreat Report

About 100 parishioners participated in this exercise of determining the feelings of those in the pews about how things were in this evolving relationship. There was much talk of what churches are doing that has effects on both the church and outside communities. Survival and outreach were the two focal points in this. Those who spoke about these were articulate and sincere in sharing their beliefs. This does not mean that there was a consensus in how things were progressing. Two things were also stated, the Interim Bishop said that the decisions would ultimately have to be made by the churches involved with no pressure from higher authorities, and Pastor Scott stated that the decision to close a Lutheran church would only be made by Lutherans. There were 3 young people present, and 2 spoke very clearly, that although they attended church, there was really nothing there for them. We are left with the question... how are we to proceed? Do we keep doing what we are doing now? Do we do more of what we are doing now? Do we actively consider some fundamental changes in our traditional church life?

Love. Grow. Serve. Our Refugee Family After One Year

On October 7, the Naseri family (Ahmad, Nasrin, Nadir, Nadia) will have been in Canada for one year.

It has been a busy year for them and the committee that has helped them adjust to a major life change for them. Our responsibility to them as a private sponsor will officially end on October 7. This is probably optimistic, as the CBC radio programme identified the continuing difficulties faced by such newcomers in their second and more years in Canada. At the moment they are in a rented home, which they like and is reasonable, and are on the list for subsidized housing. Ahmad has a job (minimum wage) and has just got his driver's licence. Nasrin has had job interviews with no positive result. The children like school, are doing reasonable well, and have good friends. They are using English more often and more easily than their parents. We will continue to encourage Ahmad, and especially Nasrin, to keep attending ESL classes at Fleming. The family has combined social relationships with other Kurdish families in Peterborough and with members of the committee. They are certainly not being forgotten. I will be submitting an article with pictures to the Lutheran Magazine shortly about what has happened in this outreach project. I will also send in a report to Synod about this as well. Both I hope will confirm that Christ Lutheran's $1,000. and Synod's $2,500. contributions were an important part of this project.

Assisting Bishop for Trent-Durham

A Pastoral Letter to the Clergy and People of All Saints, Christ Evangelical Lutheran, St Barnabas, St John, & St Luke, all of Peterborough, October 2nd, 2016

To My Sisters and Brothers in Christ in Peterborough

Greetings in the name of God, our Creator Redeemer and Sanctifier.

Last Saturday morning, the 24th of September I attended an event, which was part of your shared determination to move together towards a common future in your city. When Bishop Linda Nicholls brought you together to consider how you might make better use of your resources, both human and material, in fulfilling God's mission in your community, she challenged you to be bold. And so, now having taken up that challenge you have narrowed down the ways you can best pool your resources and focus your mission for the future. And now a choice lies before you.

Saturday's gathering was an opportunity to reflect on how far you have come, what you truly value and must retain in the future, what you can leave behind, and what the next step or steps must be.

What Saturday revealed is that it is all a bit nerve-wracking at this point. Some people are quite impatient to just get on with it. Others are not so sure you are ready, are not so sure they like any of the options that have been offered. Feelings were running high. At one point in the morning there was a call for prayer, for a time to be silent and wait upon the Spirit's leading. Some of those in attendance thought that should have been the whole purpose of the meeting.

But how are we to discern the Spirit's leading exactly? My answer is that we have to do it corporately, by listening together not only in silence but also in conversation with one another. I believe we did that. It was quite untidy, as it must be when there are so many voices to be heard—voices of concern, of perplexity and uncertainty. What else should we have expected? This is a big step. There is a lot at stake.

The word we use to describe what we were seeking on Saturday is consensus. In consensus we develop an awareness of a common or shared desire that both respects differences and finds a shared way forward that can encompass those differences. Consensus cannot be forced. It is different than a vote, which ultimately divides us into winners and losers. Consensus is a discernment of the spirit of a gathering. For us as Christians it comes from listening to what the Spirit is saying to the churches.

My impression of the meeting is that overall there is a desire to move ahead together to select what appears to be the best option. And we need to think about the best way to determine which option will express that consensus most fully.

Over the next few weeks I will be meeting with the Lay and Clergy leaders who have worked hard and thought hard and prayed hard to bring the process to the point where some clear evidence-based options are on the table. And given what I discern is an overall consensus to select one and move towards implementing it, I will ask what they believe is the best choice. They are leaders after all. They are the ones most familiar with the evidence drawn from all the parishes, Anglican and Lutheran. Once they have developed their own consensus I will ask them to bring it to you as individuals and congregations for your support.

In all this I find these words from the Letter to the Ephesians helpful. Call it body building if you want but this is where your hard work is leading:

Each of us was given grace according to the measure of Christ's gift. The gifts he gave were that some would become apostles, some prophets, some evangelists, some pastors, some teachers, to equip the saints for the work of ministry for the building up the body of Christ until all of us come to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to the measure of the full stature of Christ. (Ephesians 4.7,11-13)

In the New Testament 'the saints' are all the believers and not just the holy superstars. It is interesting how much of what has been achieved in this project in Peterborough has been through the efforts of the men and the women in the pews. The clergy have their part in continuing to offer their gifts as well: pastoring, teaching, leading in worship. But it is the laity who have gathered and organized the evidence on which you will base your decision. We are given the gifts we need to equip one another and build up the Body of Christ. The goal is the unity of faith, acting together to become a fuller expression of the person of Christ for our day in Peterborough.

I am grateful to the Archbishop and to your leaders who have invited me to participate more fully in your efforts to discern a way forward. You are acting corporately as the Body of Christ, God's expressed presence in your city, embodying the person and spirit of Jesus.

Glory to God whose power working in us can do infinitely more than we can ask or imagine.

Glory to God from generation to generation in the church and in Christ Jesus forever and ever Amen.

Yours faithfully,

The Right Reverend Patrick White
